George Hosselback House
Buckeystown
Private

C. 1824

The George Hosselback House, a two and a half story ell shaped brown coursed stone residence is located in the center of Buckeystown.

The stonework and pointing of this building and two stone' buildings immediately across the street is exceptional. In fact according to a Frederick newspaper account dated September 30, 1939 Frank Lloyd Wright on a tour of Frederick County stopped at the south wall of the house and stated that it was "the most beautiful wall in the United States, not only because of the color and texture of the stone, but because of the stonework and proportions as well."

The house was built by George Hosselback soon after he purchased the land from Ignatius Davis in August, 1824.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The George Hosselback House, built in the first half of the nineteenth century, is a large ell shaped two and one-half story coursed stone residence which faces west from the southeast intersection of Manor Woods Road and Route 85 in Buckeystown.

The principle facade is three bays wide and two bays deep. The main entrance, a replaced paneled door with three light transom and side lights, is located in the third bay.

Occupying the remaining bays on the first and second levels are large replaced 2/2 windows with wood lintels. According to an oral history account, the windows were changed at the request of Charles Thomas, who hired the stone mason working on the United Methodist Church to do the work in 1896. Additional windows were also added to the south side of the building. A two story original stone addition, four bays wide, extends to the rear of the main block of the building. The structure is built on a random stone foundation and is covered by a slate flank gable roof with plain boxed cornice. A two story frame second porch extends to the rear of the building in the northeast corner; was added in the 1940's. Original brick chimneys straddle the roof on the north and south ends of the building. A third brick chimney is located on the east gable end of the brick addition.

The stonework and pointing of this building and two stone buildings immediately across the street is exceptional. In fact, according to a Frederick News Post account dated September 30, 1939, Frank Lloyd Wright on a tour of Frederick County stopped at the south wall of the Hosselback house and stated that it was "the most beautiful wall in the United States, not only because of the color and texture of the stone, but because of the stonework and proportions as well".

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The George Hosselback House, one of the oldest residences in Buckeystown and according to Frank Lloyd Wright, a house which had "the most beautiful wall in the United States" was probably built soon after George Hosselback purchased the land from Ignatius Davis for $320 in 1824.¹

Upon Hosselback's death in the 1860's, his executor Benjamin A. Cunningham sold the property to David Thomas.²

In 1888, Elizabeth Thomas sold the house to Charles Thomas,³ an entrepreneur who owned much of the property in the town during this period.

In 1929, his wife Sarah, sold the property to Annie Nicodemus⁴ who lived in the house until the 1940's when it was sold to the current owners.
